Atkin & Co opens new London Office

Atkin & Co, the pension scheme administrator and actuarial consultant, today announced that, following a company-wide expansion (including Atkin Trustees - the independent trustee company), they have opened a new office in London.

Commenting, Chris Atkin, Managing Director of Atkin & Co, said: "This is clearly a hugely exciting time for our organisation. Over the last 24 months we have seen an unprecedented amount of growth across the business which, we believe, directly reflects how schemes and trustees are now approaching their provider selection. It is no longer just about the 'big players', but about schemes more carefully aligning themselves with organisations who are best placed to provide them with the tailored and bespoke service crucial to their schemes.

"The last year alone has seen the number of clients rise by almost 20% and we now have over 90 clients across the business. The opening of the office reflects not only this expansion but also the further potential for growth in the South East, where we already have a number of clients."

Atkin continued: "We have already recruited for the London office and have welcomed a number of new employees on-board *. We are fortunate to have such a dedicated and enthusiastic team, in both London and the Midlands, to meet these new exciting opportunities and further grow the business."

ENDS.
